PREFACE.

THE office of the Administrator-General grew out of the exigencies of the Mercantile and Trading Community in Bengal, whose interests were safeguarded by the Charter establishing the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, dated the 26th March 1774. Its functions have been developed, and regulated, on lines which experience has shown to be necessary ; and its history is an illustration of the adaptation, and modification, to suit local circumstances, of those principles which underlie the law of trusts, and the law affecting the administration of the Estates of deceased persons.

Under the Charter establishing the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William (dated 26th March 1774), that Court was empowered to exercise such Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction in Bengal, Behar and Orissa, over British subjects, as was exercised in the diocese of London, and to that end the Court was authorized :—

1. To grant Probates of the last Wills of all, or any, British subjects, dying within the three provinces of Bengal, Behar and Orissa.
2. To commit Letters of Administration of the goods, chattels, credits and other effects of such British subjects who should die intestate within those provinces, or who should not have named an Executor resident in such district ; or when the Executor being duly cited should not appear, and sue for such Probate, annexing the Will to such Letters of Administration, where such person should have left a Will without naming an Executor.

3. To sequester the Estates of deceased person.
4. To allow and reject accounts.
5. To reserve power to grant Probate when an Executor appeared after Letters of Administration had been granted.
6. To grant administration to lawful next of kin ; and in case no such person was residing within the jurisdiction or being duly cited did not appear, to the principal creditor, or such other creditors as should be willing ; and for want of any creditors then to such person who should be thought proper.

(Vide Clause XXII of the Charter.)

Attention has also to be given to the Ecclesiastical Rules dealing with the various forms of petitions that should be presented :—

(Vide Rules 1 to 2 under heading Probate ; Rules 1 to 12 under heading Administration.)

(Smoult and Ryan on Rules and Orders of the Supreme Court.)

The estates which fell to be administered by the Ecclesiastical Registrar may be taken to have come under three heads :—

1. Estates of Intestates to which the Registrar was entitled to administer as of right ;
2. Estates of which the Registrar had been appointed Executor by Will, or where he had been requested to administer under power-of-attorney.
3. Estates of Hindus and Mahomedans, the administration of which had been granted to the Registrar, not as a matter of right, but at the instance or request of persons interested in the estates.

The first statute which dealt with the powers of the Ecclesiastical Registrar to obtain administration to estates was 39 and 40 Geo. III, C. 79. In order to understand the position of the Registrar under this statute, attention is directed to Sec.

XXI of the Act which reads as follows :—“ And whereas great inconveniences have arisen from the practice of granting Letters of Administration by the said Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William aforesaid in cases where the next of kin or any of the creditors of the deceased do not apply for the same, to persons calling themselves friends of the deceased, be it therefore further enacted that from and after the first day of March which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and one, whenever any British subject shall die intestate within either of the presidencies of Fort William, Fort Saint George or Bombay, or the territories subordinate to either of the said presidencies or to become subordinate thereto and on return of the citation to be issued from the proper Ecclesiastical Court, no next of kin or creditors shall appear and make out their claim to the administration of the effects of the intestate deceased to the satisfaction of the said Court, it shall and may be lawful for the Registrar of such Court, and he is hereby required and directed to grant such letters of administration ad colligenda as to such Court shall seem meet, by virtue whereof such Registrar shall collect the assets of the deceased and shall bring them for safe custody into such Court and account for them regularly in like manner as is now by law provided in cases where assets are vested in the hands of any officer of the Court under or by virtue of the equitable jurisdiction of any such Court.”

It was not long before it became necessary to further develop the law on the subject. To this end Stat. 55, Geo. III, Cap. 84, was enacted which after reciting the Act referred to in the previous para. and reciting that such Act did not expressly provide for the cases of executors, or administrators, or persons entitled as thereafter mentioned, not resident within the jurisdiction who might have appointed attorneys ; and that it was doubtful whether the Courts were not required under the previous Statute to grant letters ad colligenda, or ordinary Letters of Administration, to their Registrars in preference to granting them to the Attorneys of persons entitled to such grants, it was enacted that if the persons so entitled had granted powers-of-attorney, the attorney appointed thereby would have a preferential right to the Registrar. It also provided for the revocation of grants to the Registrar in such cases (vide Secs. II, III and IV of Stat. 55, Geo. III, Cap. 84).

By Sec. 5 of the same statute it was provided that the Registrar when appointed administrator under the two Statutes under review was bound to keep the accounts of each estate committed to him in a book which was to be open to the public. He was also bound to file in Court periodically true and perfect schedules of all sums of money, bonds or other securities received on account of each estate remaining under his charge. There was no such restriction imposed upon private administrators; and in fact there is no such restriction even now imposed upon private administrators. It will thus be observed that the Registrar had not by any means such a monopoly of administration of estates as was at one time considered to be the case; but, as has already been stated, private administrators were not by any means subject to similar restrictions in regard to the question of the method of keeping and filing their accounts, etc. The precautions, however, above referred to proved to be quite inadequate.

Gross irregularities and abuses were discovered in respect of estates under the charge of Sir T. E. M. Turton, who held the office of Ecclesiastical Registrar, with the result that an order was passed by the Supreme Court on the 8th March 1848, appointing a Committee to enquire into the working of his office. The Committee so appointed, duly enquired into the working of his office, and presented their report on the 29th January 1849. It is not proposed to deal with this report, beyond observing that it proved that the Registrar had abused his powers; that he had employed the moneys in his hands in trade, and that heavy losses had been incurred.

The Government of India, in view of the disclosures above alluded to, considered it advisable to take steps to protect the interest of the beneficiaries and next of kin of persons dying intestate, as well as of those who left Wills, and after some consideration it was resolved that a public official should be appointed, who would protect the property of persons dying in cases where no steps were taken by the next of kin (if any), or where the next of kin were resident out of British India. It was also considered advisable to give such official power to deal with the estates of persons who had left Wills, where either the beneficiaries under the Will were resident out of British India, or where they, or the executors named, took no steps to protect the estate. After carefully considering the position of matters, the Government of India passed Act VII of 1849, which may be termed the first Administrator-General's Act.

This Act recites "that it was expedient to disconnect the administration of the estates of British subjects dying intestate in the presidency of Fort William in Bengal from the office of the Ecclesiastical Registrar of the Supreme Court." On the passing of this Act, the office of the Ecclesiastical Registrar was in effect abolished, his duties being made over to the Master of the Supreme Court, while the estates of deceased persons then in the hands of the Ecclesiastical Registrar were made over to the Administrator-General of Bengal appointed under the Act of 1849. In order to provide against any repetition of such fraud or misconduct as had been previously committed, many restrictions and safeguards were introduced by the Act, the most important of which was that the person holding the office was strictly prohibited from trading, or in fact acting in any manner which would in the slightest degree be likely to furnish an opportunity of dealing with moneys under his control for his private purposes, or otherwise. It was also provided that his accounts were to be the subject of strict scrutiny by the Auditors of the Government of India, who were bound to submit a report to the Government every six months as to such accounts, and moreover, the person holding such appointment was liable to be summarily proceeded against on petition by the Government of India.

It is not intended to deal here in detail with the provisions of the Act, now in course of consideration, but attention may usefully be directed to the following provisions, while those interested in the subject may be usefully referred to the Act itself. The special provisions to which attention is here drawn are:—

1. That the Act only related to the Presidency of Fort William ;
2. That all administrations granted to the Registrar, and estates vested in him, were transferred by operation of law to the Administrator-General ;
3. That the Registrar for the time being of the Supreme Court was to be the first Administrator-General ;
4. That all future Administrators-General were to be appointed by Government ;
5. That the Administrator-General was not to be deemed an officer of Court ;
6. That he was to give security ;
7. That he was to be entitled to a commission of 3%, out of which he was to pay establishment, etc. ;
8. That no private executor, or administrator, was entitled to charge commission ;
9. That accounts were to be audited by Government auditors who were to report to Government ;
10. That the Administrator-General was authorized to grant a certificate (Secs. 20, 21 and 22).

By Act II of 1850, which was passed on 11th January 1850 the Act of 1849 was extended to Madras and Bombay ; it was provided that the rate of commission charged was not to be the same ; that the Administrators-General of these two provinces were not to cease to hold the office of Ecclesiastical Registrars ; and by Section IV of the Act that the Administrators-General were strictly prohibited from trading, etc.

One provision of the Act of 1849 which gave rise to a great deal of controversy was that relating to commission. The Administrator-General of Bengal was allowed a commission of 3%, but by the Act it was strictly prohibited that any other person should charge a commission. It appeared that the Ecclesiastical Registrar as well as private Administrators had previously been permitted to charge a commission. This was obviously opposed to the general rule of law which forbids an executor, or administrator to make a profit. It was thought desirable to deter agency houses, but although there was this provision in the Act, it practically remained a dead letter. In fact, matters went to such an extent that the Administrator-General in 1878, at the instance of Government, took the opinion of the Advocate-General, who in effect advised that any private executor or administrator who charged or retained commission was indictable for criminal breach of trust. Under the directions of the Government the Advocate-General's opinion was published in the Gazette.

Subsequent Memorials were presented on the above subject, but in the year 1882 the Government of India, after further consideration on the subject, decided that the provision in question which had been retained in all the Acts dealing with the office of Administrator-General should be repealed, and as a matter of fact, Sec. 56 of Act II of 1874 has been repealed by Sec. 4 of Act V of 1902, which section also gives the Court power to remove any private executor, or administrator, and to provide for the succession of another person ; the same section also provides that no private executor or administrator is entitled to a higher rate of commission than the Administrator-General as fixed by Act II of 1874.

It will now be convenient to go back and deal with the Acts that have from time to time been passed. As already stated, Act VII of 1849 was extended to Madras and Bombay by Act II of 1850.

This Act remained in force until the year 1855 when a further Act was passed, being Act VIII of 1855, which repealed both the last mentioned Acts.

The most important provisions of the Act of 1855 may shortly be stated as follows :—

1. The appointment of an Administrator-General in each presidency ;
2. That the Administrator-General should not be considered an officer of the Supreme Court ;
3. That all Letters of administration granted by the Court at Fort St. George to the Ecclesiastical Registrar should vest in the Administrator-General ;
4. That every Administrator-General should give security ;
5. That no Administrator-General should give any bond in cases of administration ;
6. That the Administrator-General was to have a preferential right over creditors or friends ;
7. That if no administration was applied for within one month from date of death of the deceased, the Administrator-General should apply for administration to estates whose value exceeded Rs. 500 ;
8. Courts were given powers to direct the Administrator-General to be placed in possession of estates under circumstances set out in Sec. XII.
9. Power was given to the Administrator-General to grant certificates in cases where the value of the estate did not exceed Rs. 500 ;
10. District Judges were also directed to report deaths. (Sec. LIV).

Attention is drawn to the provisions of the Act itself, and it will be seen therefrom that every precaution was taken to protect estates. It is important here to call attention to Sec. 51 of this Act which provided for the disposal of certain funds in the hands of the Administrators-General of Madras and Bombay. This section does not, it will be noted, apply to the Administrator-General of Bengal. No reason is disclosed for this omission, but the defect, if it can so be called, was subsequently rectified when the Act dealing with the transfer of Government Securities and moneys in High Courts came to be passed. That Act (XXV of 1866) was passed on the 11th July 1866, and provides for the transfer of funds lying in Courts unclaimed for a period of 20 years. The preamble is as follows :—“ And whereas it is expedient that the net proceeds of all estates under the order of the Supreme Court of the Straits Settlements or in the official charge of the Administrator-General of Bengal, and now or hereafter appearing from the official books and accounts to have been in his custody for a period of 15 years or upwards without any claim thereto having been made, and allowed during that period, should be transferred to Government.”

The Act of 1855, and the aforesaid proviso of Act XXV of 1866 remained in force until the year 1867, when a further Act was passed dealing with the office of the Administrator-General. This was Act XXIV of 1867, which received the assent of the Governor-General on the 22nd March 1867, and which made various changes in the law, the most important of which may be noted as follows :—

- (1) It defined what may be termed the Jurisdiction of the Administrators-General of Bengal, Madras and Bombay, respectively ;
- (2) It provided that the Administrator-General should be a member of the Bar of England or Ireland, etc. ;
- (3) That the Administrator-General was not to be deemed an officer of the High Court ;
- (4) That no Administrator-General was to hold the appointment of Ecclesiastical Registrar, nor were they allowed to hold any other post without the sanction of the Government of India, but any Administrator might be appointed the Official Trustee, and the Administrator-General of Bengal might also hold appointment as Receiver of the High Court ;

- (5) It was declared an offence punishable under the Penal Code for any Administrator-General to trade, etc. ;
- (6) The Administrator-General was given a prior right over creditors, legatees (other than a universal legatee), or a friend ;
- (7) The limit of Rs. 500 fixed by Sec. XI of Act VIII of 1855 was increased to Rs. 1,000.
- (8) The Administrator-General was given power to deal with the estates of soldiers and sailors subject to the Articles of War ;
- (9) Provisions were made for the transfer of estates by private executors or administrators to the Administrator-General of any of the Presidencies ;
- (10) The Administrator-General was given power to grant certificates in cases of estates not exceeding Rs. 1,000 in value, and he was also empowered to take formal charge of such estates ;
- (11) The provision as to the transfer of assets to Government contained in Act VIII of 1855 was by Sec. LIX of the present Act extended to all three Presidencies ;
- (12) Power was given to the Government of India by Sec. LXIV to appoint a Deputy Administrator-General.

Before passing on to the Act which is at present in force, reference may be made to the provisions of the following Acts :—

- (1) Act XXVI of 1855.
- (2) Act XXVI of 1860.
- (3) Act IV of 1865.
- (4) Act XXV of 1866.
- (5) Act XXV of 1866.
- (6) Act XIX of 1869.
- (7) Act V of 1870.

The first of the above Acts related to the payments of small deposits in Government Savings Banks to the representatives of the deceased depositors, and by Sec. 1 power was given to the Bank to pay deposits not exceeding Rs. 500 without the production of probates, etc., as therein provided, and the Bank had power to take security, if they so desired, and the Secretary was also given the power to administer oaths, but nothing in the Act applied to payment of money in Government Savings Bank belonging to the estate of any deceased European officer or soldier dying in the service of the East India Company, or to the estate of any officer, seaman, or person dying in the marine service of the Company, or to a person who was a deserter from such services.

Act XXVI of 1860.—This Act, which amended Act VIII of 1855 provided for the administration of the estates of soldiers, etc., and also gave power to administer estates without administration in cases falling within Sec. 43 of 1855; it also dealt with the power of appointing an Acting Administrator-General.

The above provisions were, as will be seen, incorporated in the Act of 1867, by which Act this Act was repealed.

Act IV of 1865.—This Act amended Act VIII of 1855, and by Sec. 2 thereof, it was declared that the 26th Section of Act VIII of 1855 should not apply to cases in which the property of an officer or soldier dying in service should come into the hands of the Administrator-General under the 9 or 12 sections of the Regimental Debts Act, 1863; further, that the Administrator-General was only entitled to a commission of 3 per cent. on the gross amount coming to his hands.

Act XXV of 1866.—This Act, as already pointed out, supplied an omission in the Act of 1855.

By the Act of 1867, Sec. 4 of Act XXVI of 1855 was repealed, and the whole Acts XXVI of 1860 and IV of 1865 were also repealed.

Act XIX of 1869.—This Act amended the definition of the Presidency of Madras as given in the Act of 1867, and the words "Hyderabad Assigned Districts" were omitted; the definition of the Bombay Presidency was also amended by including the words "and also, so far as regards British subjects, the Hyderabad Assigned Districts." The reason for this was that the facilities of communication between Bombay and the District in question were greater.

Act V of 1870.—This Act gave power to the Court to deal with the costs of petitions under Act XXV of 1866, and the provision relating to the Administrator-General of Bengal was repealed by Act II of 1874.

We now come to the Act in force, namely, Act II of 1874.

Act II of 1874.—This Act was presented at the Council which met at Government House on the 27th January 1874; it recited that having regard to the fact of certain amendments, and also to the fact that the Act of 1867 had already been amended by Act XIX of 1867 and Act V of 1870, it was thought advisable to repeal the then existing Acts and re-enact them, so as to have the law conveniently within the compass of one Act. The Act again came up for discussion on 10th February 1874, when it was discussed, and finally received the assent of the Governor-General. The report of the Select Committee, which will repay perusal, will be found in the supplement to the Gazette of India, dated January 31st, 1874, p. 101.

The Act, as it was originally framed, has subsequently been amended from time to time, and attention is drawn to the following Acts:—

- (1) Act I of 1879.
- (2) Act IX of 1881.
- (3) Act II of 1890.
- (4) Act VII of 1901.
- (5) Act V of 1902.

Act V of 1902.—By the provisions of this Act, the office of the Administrator-General of Bengal was taken over by the Government of India, and the most important provisions in this Act may be stated to be as follows :—

- (1) That the Administrator-General and the Deputy Administrator-General should be remunerated by fixed salaries.
 - (2) That the Government of India were to be responsible for all the civil liabilities of the Administrator-General, thus affording the public an additional guarantee.
 - (3) Power was given to the High Court to give directions in connection with the management or administration of estates (vide Sec. 5).
 - (4) Power was given to the High Court to cancel grants to private administrators (vide Sec. 4).
 - (5) Section 256 of the Indian Succession Act was amended by exempting the constituted attorney of an absent executor from entering into the usual security bond.

DECLARATION BY ATTESTING WITNESSES TO EXECUTION OF THE WILL.

I the undersigned one of the attesting witnesses to the last Will and Testament of the deceased abovenamed do hereby declare that I was present at the time the testator (testatrix) abovenamed signed his (her) Will, and the signature (A B) at the foot of the said Will is in the proper handwriting of the said deceased, and was affixed in my presence and in the presence of (name of other witness) the other attesting witness, both of us signing in the presence of the deceased.

Notes.

1. If the testator or testatrix has executed any Codicil or Codicils, reference should be made to these in para. 2, and such Codicil or Codicils must be annexed. It will also be necessary to get the declaration of one of the attesting witnesses to prove the execution of the Codicil or Codicils, as the case may be.

2. If it is required to obtain an unlimited grant, the statements in paras. 4—9 of Form B should be followed as also the prayer to that form, but such prayer should of course ask for probate and not administration.

3. If the assets be under Rs. 2,000, paras. 4 and 8 and the prayer to Form C should be followed.

4. If the attestation clause to the Will or Codicil be in any way defective, the mere declaration as given above will not do, but affidavits by the attesting witnesses should be procured, and this course should also be adopted where the testator puts his mark, etc.

5. In cases where the attesting witnesses are dead, or it is difficult to obtain affidavits from them owing to absence from the country or otherwise, it is necessary to put in an affidavit explaining the circumstances, and to obtain an affidavit from some person who can speak to the handwriting of the deceased and to the handwriting of the attesting witnesses.

6. It sometimes happens that a Will is executed in duplicate ; in such cases both copies must be proved.

7. In case of the deceased appointing an executor in England or elsewhere for the purpose of dealing with his estate out of British India, no proof of the execution of the Will is required if probate is sought for upon an exemplification, but the exemplification must be annexed to the Petition, and a statement inserted in the Petition showing where the Will was proved, or in other words where probate was granted, and in such cases paras. 2 and 3 should be amended in accordance with facts.

8. It may here be added that in cases where the deceased has a Scotch domicile, a holograph Will can be admitted to Probate, and in such cases it is necessary to put in an affidavit showing (1) deceased's domicile to be Scotch, (2) that the Will in question is entirely in the handwriting of the deceased. (Vide In the goods of William Gorrie, where administration granted to the Administrator-General—date of grant 9 day of December 1903.)

9. The above procedure should also be followed in cases of French Domicile (vide In the goods of Madame de la Harpe administration granted to Administrator-General on 9 day of August 1906).

10. In cases coming under above heads, the statement in the Petition must be in accordance with the facts.

FORM F.

PETITION FOR LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION WITH COPY OF WILL ANNEXED.

Heading same as in Form A.

1. Same as in Form A leaving out the word "intestate."
2. Set out fact as to deceased having left a Will or Codicil, etc.

Note.—If executors appointed have renounced, it should be so stated and the original renunciation annexed. If executors are absent from British India it should be so stated. In fact, all particulars as to reason for the application should be given.

3. (See para. 3, Form E.)

Note.—If the Will has already been proved in another Court and an exemplification is being annexed, paras. 2 and 3 will require alteration in accordance with facts.

4. (Vide para. 4, Form A, or para. 4, Form B.)
5. (Vide para. 5, Form A.)

Note.—If the Administrator-General is applying at the request of the next-of-kin or at request of executor in England, this para. should be amended accordingly.

6. (Vide para. 6, Form A, and note to para. 6, Form B.)
7. (Vide para. 7, Form A.)
8. (Vide para. 8, Form A.)
9. Your Petitioner is desirous of obtaining Letters of Administration to the estate of the deceased abovenamed with copy of the said Will annexed. (If there be any Codicils, these should be referred to.)

N.B.—If the grant is to be throughout British India vide Form B and prayer to that form.

Note.

Attention is drawn to previous forms regarding statements, etc., to be inserted where (1) grant is to be unlimited, (2) where the estate is under Rs. 2,000 in value, (3) where debts exceed assets, (4) where Will is holograph and where domicile is Scotch.

who was not a Hindu, Mahomedan, Pars or Buddhist, or a person exempted under the Indian Succession Act, 1865, sec. 332, from the operation of that Act, and who was at the time of his death (insert particulars) died at _____ on the _____ day of _____ intestate, leaving property and credits within the Presidency of Bengal to be administered unto.

2. That the deceased at the time of his death was subject to the provisions of the Regimental Debts Act, 1893 (56 Vict., Ch. 5), and the surplus assets have, in accordance with the provisions of Regulation 26 of the said Act, been transmitted to your Petitioner for distribution in accordance with the provisions of the said Act.

3. That your Petitioner has been requested to administer to the said estate by the Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department, in accordance with the provisions of section 22 of Act II of 1874, and he is therefore desirous of obtaining administration to the estate.

4. That the property and credits, which are likely to come into your Petitioner's hands, should he obtain such Letters of Administration, are of the estimated value of Rs. _____ made up as follows :—

Balance of account of the Committee of Adjustment realized from the Pay Examiner, Bengal Command	Rs.
--	-----

Particulars of any other assets which have not been realized, such as balance in Banks, Shares, Policies, etc.	Rs.

(Here set out particulars from the proceedings forwarded to the office.)

5. That so far as your Petitioner is aware there is no other property and credits besides those specified above belonging to the estate of the said deceased situate in any Province of British India, and your Petitioner hereby undertakes in case of its being afterwards found that there are other property and credits to pay the additional duty payable in respect thereof.

6. That no previous application has been made for a grant of Probate or Letters of Administration to the estate of the said deceased with effect throughout the whole of British India, as appears by the Registrar's Certificate hereto annexed and marked with the letter A.

7. (Vide para. 8 in Form A as to payment of duty.)

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays your Lordships for an order that Letters of Administration to the property and credits of the deceased abovenamed as in case of intestacy be granted to your Petitioner as the Administrator-General of Bengal out of and under the seal of this Hon'ble Court.

And your Petitioner shall ever pray, etc.

Petitioner's Attorneys.

Notes.

1. The sections of the Administrator-General's Act are sections 21 and 22, but the reference in the latter section to the Regimental Debts Act as being the Act of 1863 is wrong ; the present Act in force is the Act of 1893 (Vict. 56, Ch. 5).

2. The procedure to be adopted on the death of a person subject to Military Law is laid down in the aforesaid Act of 1893, and attention is drawn to sections 25 and 26 of the Act which makes the Act applicable to India with the modifications therein referred to.

3. If the assets of the estate do not exceed Rs. 2,000 in value, the undertaking given in Form C should be followed (vide also prayer in Form C).

4. If the grant is to extend throughout British India (vide Form B).

5. If the deceased left a Will and administration is required with Will annexed (vide Form G).

6. If the debts exceed the assets (vide Form D).

7. It will be noted that in cases falling within the Regimental Debts Act the Court Fees Act is not followed, the reason for this being that the Committee of Adjustment realize certain of the assets and pay certain debts, and an account of their dealing with the assets is submitted showing surplus in hand and particulars of assets which remain to be realized, hence wording of particulars of assets as above.
